A black and white photograph of a statue of Noah Webster. The statue is a full-length standing figure, shown in profile facing right. It is made of a light-colored material, possibly marble or stone, and depicts an older man with a high-collared coat and a long, flowing skirt or robe. The statue is set outdoors in a winter landscape. Bare, dark tree branches are visible in the foreground and background. The ground is covered in snow. The lighting is soft, creating subtle shadows on the statue's clothing.

When a Conard student, like any other modern American, wishes to pronounce, spell, or define correctly a word in our language, it is more than likely that he will consult Webster's dictionary. Perhaps we of Conard High are especially aware of Noah Webster and his contributions to our language because Webster was born here in West Hartford, in a small, red, salt box home overlooking the present site of Conard High School. But our pride as West Hartford citizens in Noah Webster, the city's favorite son, goes beyond his fame as author of the time honored dictionary. We shall always try to follow the Webster tradition of meeting the challenges of life with enthusiasm.

We, the class of 1961, are completing three years of preparation designed to help us meet the changes and challenges of our future. No matter how far we gain in experience, nor how much we grow in intellect, we will always want to keep this classbook close at hand as a reference to our days at Conard. For we shall always pronounce the name of Conard with pride, spell the name of Conard with bold awareness of the gifts she has given us, and define the name of Conard in terms of our own graduating class — to us, at least, the most important of all such classes.

HENRY A. WEYLAND
Principal

To the Class of 1961:

Conard's constant quest for the best has brought you many firsts in the field of education. The Conard Lecture Series and the Conard Honors Program in all academic areas were started during your first year in high school. Team teaching and the lengthened school day with its added class period became realities while you were juniors. During your senior year more National Merit Finalists were chosen from among your classmates than from any other school in the state.

Now, as you leave Conard's classrooms, we congratulate you on your achievements and wish you Godspeed. Our best wishes, hopes, and prayers go with you.

Henry A. Weyland

Seniors

Superl. of Sophomore; compar. of Junior. 1. Educ. Students more advanced in dignity, rank, course, and office. 2. Conard. Those students most adept in the art of getting things done; e.g., getting to Friendly's on school nights.

LESLIE ABRAHAMSON

"And there are those with fine taste and manners." Defoe

JOAN ADDISON

"A merry heart goes all the day." Shakespeare

ANNE ALLEN

"Bright is the ring of words." Stevenson

ROBERT ALLEN

"The older I grow, the more I distrust the familiar doctrine that age brings wisdom." Mencken

BRENDA ALTMAN

"She's very handsome, and has wit at will." Swift

MARIANNE ANDERSON

"As fresh as the . . . sunrise." Dolbain

NANCY ANDERSON

"Jesters do oft prove prophets." Shakespeare

JOSEPH ARCARI

"A kinder gentleman treads not the earth." Shakespeare

American Field Service: This cultural exchange is the modern way to spread international friendship, and Conard is proud of her participation in the program. This year our foreign student, Ulrich Meditsch from Germany, sparked our fund-raising magazine drive with a pep talk.

"Now, how would you say that in English?"

WILLIAM ARNONE

"Sigh no more ladies, sigh no more." Shakespeare

SANDRA BAILEY

"Silence is more musical than any song." Rossetti

CAROL BALBONI

"Kindness as large and plain as the prairie wind." Benet

BRUCE BASCH

"In every rank, great or small, it's industry supports us all." Gay

HOPE BASON

"A painter is a companion for kings and emperors." West

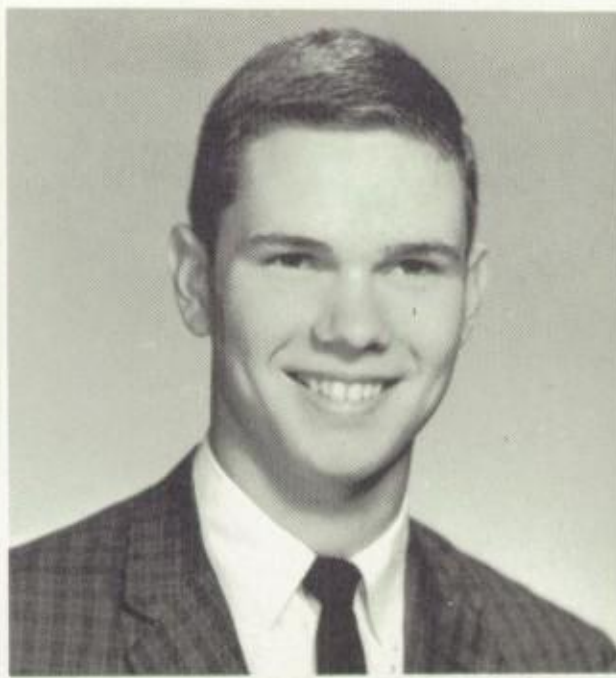

Biology: Although biology is taken by most Conardites in the sophomore year, there are some seniors who take it as a climax to their high school careers. Biology is the study of all life. At Conard this study is enhanced by many up-to-date laboratory facilities.

"We've found it! The cure for school!"

GEORGE BASSOS

"His figure is handsome; all girls he can please." Leybourne

MARK BAXLEY

"What e're he did was done with so much ease, in him alone 't was natural to please." Dryden

SHARI BERNE

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever." Keats

ROBERT BERGQUIST

"Life is delight; away dull care." Pal-ladas

Bonfire: A hand and spirit-warming tradition, the bonfire, begins every football season. This year's pep blaze saw students limbering up their stiff, summer muscles in a snake dance around the football field. In years to come, the crackling of this fire will continue to signal the start of all the magnificent seasons in Conard's future.

"If somebody can find a match, we'll fire up the team."

ALBERT BIELITZ

"Abandon learning, and you will be free from trouble and distress." Tao-Tse

ROBERT BISBEE

"Life's greatest adventure is in doing one's level best." Morgan

JOHN BURRILL

"Honest men value nothing as much as a real friend." Bidkai

GAIL CAMERON

"I believe in the discipline of silence and could talk for hours about it." Shaw

Chemistry: Many seniors, taking proud control of their own laboratory drawer and their own destiny, attempt chemistry. One of the more difficult areas of study, chemistry, nevertheless, offers a general attraction to seniors seeking experience in today's scientific techniques.

"Dr. Herzig . . . HELP!"

SHEILA CAMP
"Love is a kind of warfare." Ovid

GERALDINE CARBONE
"Most shy and ladylike." Lowell

SANDRA CARLSON
"My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky." Wordsworth

GERALD CHAFETZ
"Mischievous, thou art afoot." Shakespeare

Driver Education: The privilege of taking driver education in school has appreciably lowered the level of teenage carelessness in the car. Most students take the course three periods a week in their junior or senior year, under the instruction of teachers who possess patience, normal blood pressure, excellent nerves, and a brake on their side of the car.

"Thank heaven for little girls: Without them what would little boys do?" Lerner

JOHN COFFEY

"I abhor the dull routine of existence." Doyle

BARBARA COHN

"It seems to me that talk should be like water, sprinkled sparingly." Paul

Elections: Seniors will never forget the Student Council elections of 1960. Bands and trains paraded the halls. The "toothpick" gave his famous speech, bringing Conard to a new frontier.

"For the pahst year and a hahf, our pahty . . ."

JOAN COLLAR

"An optimist is always broke." Hubbard

CAROL CONANT

"Her cheeks are so white, and her hair is so charmingly curled." Kingsley

MYLES CONNELL

"Reading makes a full man — meditation, a profound man — discourse, a clear man." Franklin

SUSAN CONRAD

"Good humour only teaches charms to last, still makes new conquests and maintains the past." Pope

"And hear thy stormy music in the drum!" Campbell

EDWARD COPPA

"Work fascinates me; I can sit and look at it for hours." Jerome

BARRY COSSETTE

"Fun is like life insurance; the older you get, the more it costs." Hubbard

English: Three years of English at Conard are climaxed in the senior year with the study of England's literary history. Students delve deeply into Shakespearean tragedy and read such novels as Hardy's Return of the Native. Every student has the opportunity to become well-versed in the four language skills —reading, writing, listening, and speaking.

"Mike, you're Macbeth, and Ray, you can be the First Witch!"

ARLINE DOBIN

"She is a talker and needs no questioning before she speaks." Euripedes

RICHARD DRASDIS

"In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." Isaiah

Foods: Many girls who wish to prepare for homemaking or for nursing select a course in foods. Here girls learn about nutrition and mysterious creations called "olive puffs." For their Christmas project, some students made candy houses, which later adorned many a teacher's desk. Some day well-fed husbands will bless the Conard cooking class.

"Put in a little ethyl methyl butadiene."

"Happiness is rarely absent." Maeterlinck

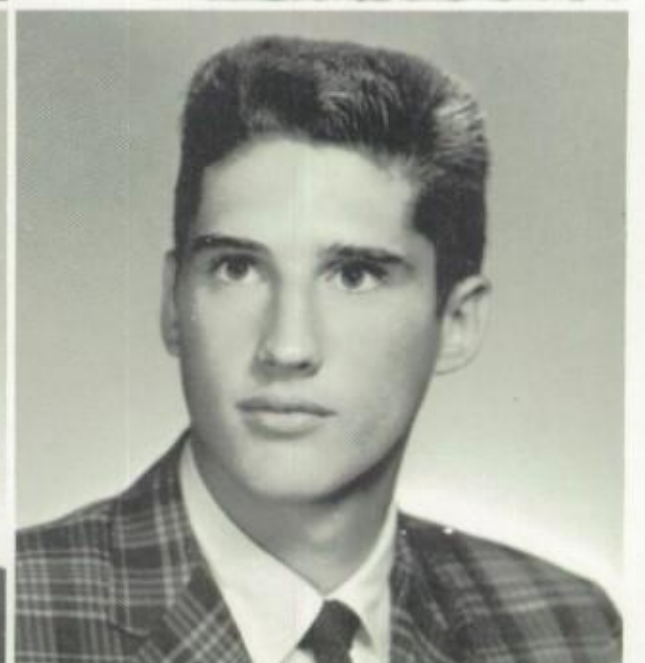

ROBERT DUNN

"Born for success he seemed." Emerson

MICHAEL DUPONTE

"I am ready even to skip out of my skin for joy." More

Foreign Languages: Foreign language courses at Conard provide the student with an invaluable aid, a unique language laboratory of recording apparatus designed to play a large role in coaching better comprehension. Besides this important practice, intensive study is made of foreign customs and culture. Each foreign language is distinguished by individual expressions of this study. This year, for example, French classes presented original plays in French, and Spanish classes organized a Spanish Honor Society.

"Fair flowers do not remain long by the roadside." Proverb

JOHN FEDERKIEWCZ

"A man that will enjoy a quiet conscience must lead a quiet life." Chesterfield

Guidance: With the help of one of our nine guidance counselors, each Conard student makes decisions concerning his future. As juniors, students are prepared with weekly lectures on the many aspects of careers and college acceptance; and, as juniors and seniors, are treated to a special college night when students may meet representatives from many schools.

"Just close your eyes and pick a college."

RICHARD FISHER

"Without music, life would be a mistake." Nietzsche

Shimmering halls of learning.

Halls: It never comes as a surprise to Conardites to learn that their school has the largest floor area of any high school in New England. The five minutes between classes are well used as students rushing from the second floor in the "B" building to the third floor of the "A" building have discovered. Woe to those who forget a book; the round trip is four-tenths of a mile!

History: Along with the required credit in American history, Conard seniors may choose to study world or modern European history, or such related courses as economics and government. During a year filled with important happenings, history classes kept the pulse of the ever-changing world situation. Some groups even held their own "great debates" in this election year. Thus, our budding historians not only concentrated on history, but on the events that will determine the future.

Industrial Arts: Courses in the Industrial Arts curriculum give boys a chance to prepare for a post high school vocation or to improve manual skills. In these courses students learn the correct methods of planning and working out projects, the handling of various construction materials, and, above all, they learn to work cooperatively with one another.

Journalism: The study of journalism is many-sided. The techniques of page layout, headlines writing, copy reading, and advertising are introduced to students. Publishing the POW WOW enables students to apply these techniques and to try their hand at presenting news in an unbiased fashion. As in the past, this year's journalism classes have kept students well-informed of school matters — from available scholarships to enjoyable sock hops.

LECTURES: Possessing such imposing titles as "The Anthropological Analysis of the Judeo-Christian Concept," the senior lectures are an interesting addition to the school year. Every Wednesday for twenty weeks, the seniors take notes diligently and listen attentively. Perhaps this is because seniors are intellectually curious; it also might be because they have to write an essay based on the lectures.

"The theme of today's lecture is of aesthetic, psychological, socio-economic, religious significance."

Lockers: Life at Conard centers around the lockers. It is there that the Conard Romeo meets his Juliet; it is there that everyone congregates before school; and it is there that many students sit and study while awaiting the opening of the homerooms.

Mechanical Drawing: Those students who plan to enter such fields as engineering, architecture, construction, landscaping, and interior decoration find mechanical drawing an important course. The course includes work on scale and working drawings, lettering, geometric forms, and model making. The high point of the course is the designing, drawing, and building of a small scale model house.

Monitors: Three minutes before the end of each period a contingent of faithful monitors emerges from the various classes. At each staircase and intersection these controllers of Conard traffic take their posts to direct students along the crowded ways to class. Posted at various entrances of the building are the monitor guides. These helpful individuals aid visitors in finding their way around Conard. Monitors and monitor guides are directly responsible for the conduction of both students and visitors around the school.

Normalcy: "Exams! Report cards! How will we ever survive?" wail the sophomores; not so the seniors, who, after three long years of high school, are calm, secure and weary. Office Practice: The atmosphere of Conard classes in office practice is developed to approximate the typical conditions of a business office. Although such jobs as taking dictation may be done manually, students also experience the handling of modern office machines, from typewriters, and duplicators to Dictaphones. This training prepares students to cope with the rapid, mechanized efficiency of today's business world.

Physical Education: Conard students find that the two periods devoted to physical education each week help to increase their interest in exercise and sports. Individual skills are developed in activities like tennis, archery, golf, and fencing; teamwork is emphasized in basketball, volleyball, and softball. As her varsity teams continue to lead the league in 1961, Conard, once again, witnesses the effectiveness of her fine athletic program.

Rush to Lunch: Rush! More than five hundred students stampede through the halls three times a day, as the Conard cafeteria staff serves three lunch shifts. The herd thrusts anything in its way against the rows of bookshelves lining the halls or into one of the five lunch lines that are forming. And who is invariably up front? Why, those same people who always complain about the food.

School Spirit: Pep rallies led by ten enthusiastic cheerleaders . . . banners covering the long cafeteria wall . . . the busy preparation of placards . . . the sale of tickets and crepe-paper "shakers" . . . the squads drilling after school. These are some of the components of a Conard victory. A new addition to the agenda this year was a fun-packed variety show. The same willingness to work for the school appears in all school functions and is one reason for Conard's many triumphs.

Sociology: Those seniors interested in analyzing and interpreting their fellowmen elect a semester course in sociology. Typing: Fingers fly over the clicking typewriters every day in the business and personal typing classes. The students practice their speed drills and conditioning exercises, raising their words-per-minute scores during every class. As they become more advanced, they learn how to type business letters and office material. Finally, they demonstrate their skill by typing a manuscript or research paper. The typists are then prepared for college or business occupations.

Uniqueness: Every school has its share of off-the-wave length peculiarities. But Conard has a unique pitch and a higher frequency of rare wonders than many another school. For what other high school can boast students actually singing in the halls, a faculty not only cheerful but effervescent, an overflowing student council treasury, and two teachers who ride to school on bicycles?

Work: Knowing that education is the key to the salvation of society, every Conard student is eager and willing to work. For instance, some devote extra time to projects like the classbook — analyzing, classifying, and choosing pictures. Through such ambition and diligence, seniors prepare themselves admirably for the unsheltered world into which they shall emerge.

Young Love: According to the poets, love blossoms in the spring. However, at Conard High School, young love knows no season. For example, on a wintry day in January, one monitor counted 56 young couples going by her post within the course of that day alone. And this was only on one floor at one intersection. Whether a Conard student belongs to this lucky hand-holding class or not, love plays an important part in the life of any high school student.

ZANY: One who acts the buffoon for the amusement of others is sure to succeed in his purpose at Conard. All students are willing to encourage the zany in his action. He provides them with a sense of relief from the sameness of school life and a chance to laugh in the midst of tension.

Crash landing

Go get him, Mike!

"The hard luck team of my coaching career," said Coach McKee as he looked back over the 1960 season, which ended with four wins, three losses, and one tie. Although controlling almost every game with hard-nosed play, the Chieftains, led by co-captains George Bassos and Tom Hickey, were beset with many bad breaks and errors which nullified their chances to score.

Although the team could cross opposing goal lines for only fifty-two points the entire season, the Redmen's superb defense, the best in the CCIL, threw opposing teams for many losses. Allowing opponents only seventeen points from scrimmage, the unyielding defensive line was a decisive factor in Conard's victories.

Until the Wethersfield game, the team was making a strong bid for the championship. However, Conard lost a grueling battle when a Wethersfield halfback intercepted a pass and ran seventy yards for the only score in the game. In the game at Bristol, the Chiefs again came out on the short end of a hard fought contest when Central was successful in kicking a field goal to win 3—0.

Then came the biggest game against arch-rival Hall. On a beautiful Saturday afternoon before three thousand fans, the big Red played its best game of the season only to lose 14—12 when time ran out with the Chieftains on the Hall thirty-five yard stripe.

The Chieftain Soccer squad ended the 1960 season with a fine 5—1—1 record which included wins over state champions Hall and Glastonbury. With the inspiring leadership of Captain Fred Rice, the booters took command in all their games and consistently outplayed the opposition. However, one overtime goal put the Chieftains out of tournament consideration and in all likelihood deprived Conard of a state championship. Out-scoring the opposition four goals to one, the Conard men were plagued by bad breaks in crucial situations. Numerous potential tallies were offset by goal post interference or weird twisting bounces. After the heart-breaking loss to Manchester, however, the Chieftains rallied; and with an admirable display of fight and determination, vanquished our cocky, cross-town rival, Hall.

The Conard High wrestling team ended another fine season, compounding 5 wins and only 2 losses. With the aid of the returning seniors, the squad led in inter-scholastic competition. Spurred on by Coach Richard Gineo, and Captains Jim Scully and Bill Arnone, the team split 2 matches with the town rival, Hall High.

Whoosh!

"The 1961 Cross-Country team has the best team record in Conard's history," said coach Tracy. The team's captain, Ray Ruddy, although sick for much of the season, did a great deal to make the team "best for school spirit."

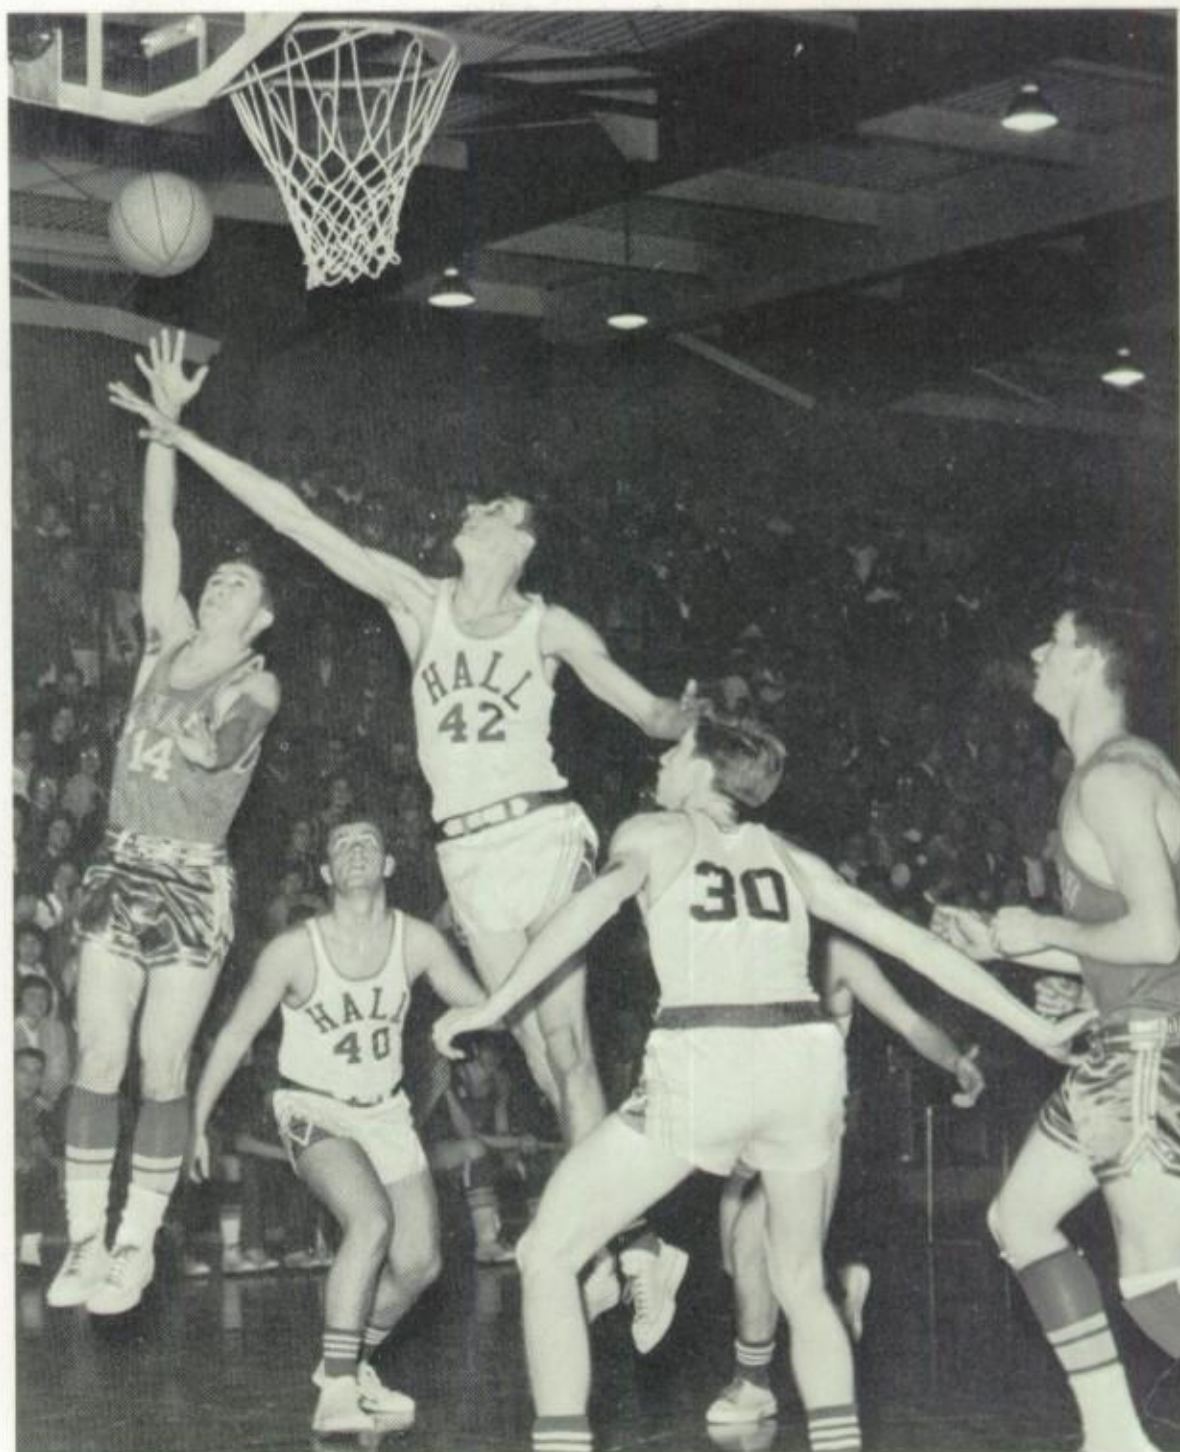

This improved team broke all last year's records on the Conard course. In the over-all record there were 6 wins and 2 losses, with one of the wins over Hall, our cross town rival, 21—37. Conard placed third in the league and third in the Greater Hartford Meet.

Basketball

During the 1960-61 season, Conard's talented basketball team led by Captain Bob Cowing seemed to do everything but tack up a winning record. Although Coach Stewart's hoopsters out-rebounded and out-scored their eight season opponents, they were unable to obtain the right combination of points and rebounds to win the close ones. When winning, the chiefs out-scored their rivals by substantial margins, but they dropped five of their nine losses by a total of ten points. Among these five defeats, there were two one point losses, to Central and Platt; and a double overtime, sudden death, two point loss to Hall.

The 1960 Conard baseball squad ended a fine season by capturing the CCIL crown and by qualifying for the state tournament. With their work cut out for them after finishing the '59 season with a 5—8 record, the hustling Chieftains brought home 9 wins and only two losses and, throughout the campaign, showed great determination by coming from behind in the ninth inning to win three of the nine victories. The Go-go Redmen of Conard also had six of their eleven contests decided by one run with the Chieftains the victor in four, beating Manchester 9—8, East twice 6—5 and 5—4, and Malony 8—7.

After the opening season loss to Hall, Conard bounced back with the hitting of Bill Julavits, Bob Rhors and Rick Meisner and with the pitching of Ed Driscoll, Ted Krzynowek and Bob Cowing to take first place in the CCIL with a classy 8—2 slaughter of Hall only to lose to Wethersfield in the opening game of the state tournament.

Track

The 1960 track team ended a fine season by winning the CCIL championship. It lived up to its reputation by winning the Greater Hartford meet for the third time, thus securing the city trophy.

The graduating lettermen were headed by our star runners Fred Hornbruch and Dick Ravizza. Under their leadership, the team broke four meet records and set a field record in the relay. Two of the fine runners on the squad represented Conard in the Eastern States Championship.

Lew Stevens and Fred Rice, returning co-captains, each did his part in aiding the team throughout the successful season.

Tennis

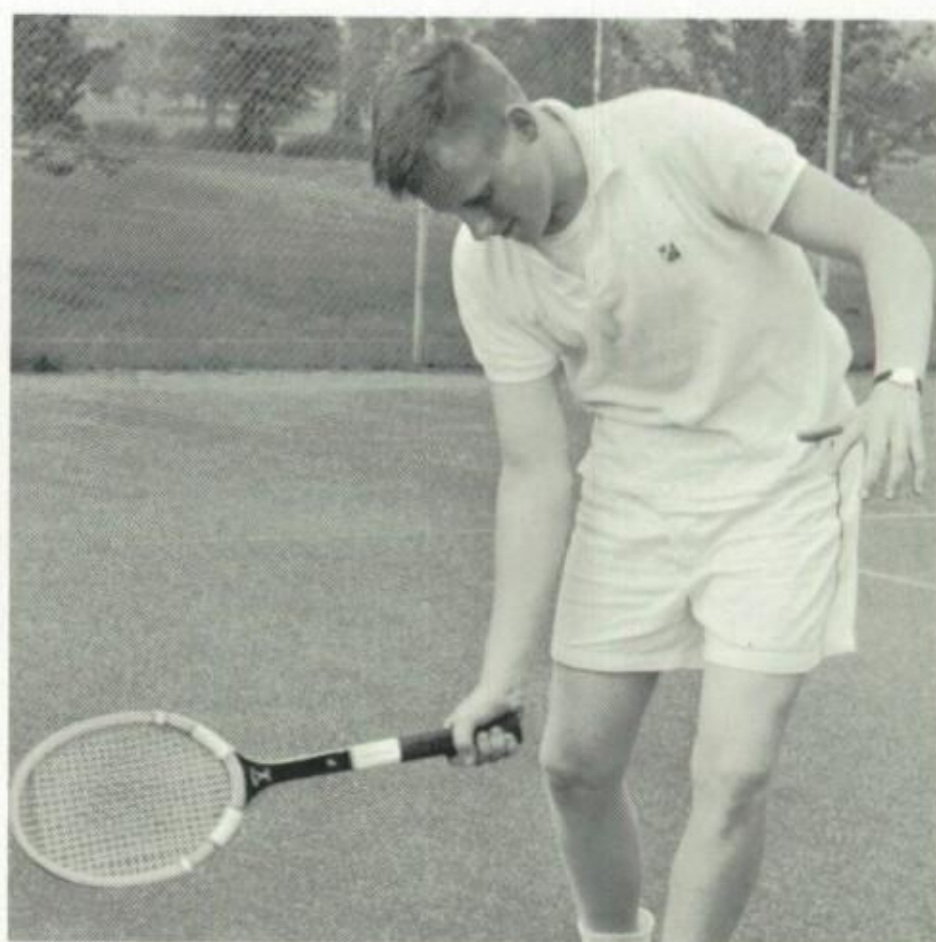

The Conard tennis team completed its third undefeated season and extended its number of consecutive victories to thirty-six. Having won all but two of its matches by a perfect score of five to nothing, the Chieftain netmen overpowered their opponents with consistently superior play. With four of the five lettermen returning, Captain Bill Larkin expects to ace the courts again in the sixty-one season with his well organized senior racketeers: Ted Dubitzky, Tim Fanning, Bill Larkin and Roy Wildeman.

Captain John Vigeant along with Mort Potoff, Sam Kane, Craig Nation and Terry Brash, under the direction of Coach Harper, obtained an 11 win 3 loss record with 2 tied matches. With a team average of 343, Conard placed 10th in the state tournament.

Coach Harper has high hopes for the '61 season when Mort Potoff, Bob Claffey and Terry Brash will be back.

Student government this past year explored many branches of life — at school, in the state, and in the nation. The Student Council, headed by the Executive Board, provided for an outdoor phone booth and a student phone directory, sponsored cultural and American Field Service assemblies, debated the scheduling of Conard Cappers, established a committee to review behavior of Student Council representatives, decided to join the high school argument against legislation to stop teenage after-dark driving, and appropriated money in order that the school might contribute to the Foster Parents Plan. The year ended with the satisfying knowledge that our treasury was in the black and that worthwhile activities were accomplished.

"Will the meeting please come to order? KEEP QUIET BACK THERE! May we have the secretary's report?" Thus begins another businesslike home room meeting. Nineteen student representatives, serving as members of the Senior Advisory Board, supervised the important doings of the senior class. Besides the dubious honor of collecting class dues, the Board chose committee members for all major senior activities: the Autumn Leaves Dance, the Senior Reception, the class gift, class night, and graduation. Thus, through the Advisory Board, seniors were able to organize their own social program for their last year at Conard.

Pictures of the Past

Take thirty-five pencil-pushing board members, divide this among one hundred forty-eight originality requiring pages, add a sampling of general frustration and deadline blues and thereby witness the mathematical equivalent of almost any classbook board. But the SECONIAN staff was not prepared to be just like any other annual staff. Determined to belt out a book worthy of the wonderful 1960-1961 election year as it was lived at Conard, the crew put together this classbook in the sincere hope that it would always serve the members of the senior class of 1961 as a token of remembrance.

The Peter Zenger Chapter of The Quill and Scroll, which was established at Conard last year, kept up its literary tradition in 1960 and 1961. Part of summer vacation was spent preparing the opening-day issue of Pow Wow. During the year, the sixteen members kept busy publishing the annual creative writing supplement, writing new releases, and initiating new members.

The Pow Wow staff will never forget those Thursday afternoon deadlines when they wrote last minute articles, rearranged layout sheets, and photographed important school celebrities. With a spirit known only to the press, Pow Wow accomplished its weekly aim of recording newsworthy Conard events.

The Halls Are Alive with the Sound of Music

"One, two, three, kick down!" Eighty high-stepping students participated in the Marching Band, which performed at football games and pep rallies. Rehearsals every Saturday morning for almost two hours supply the reason why our popular band always gave an excellent half-time show.

Over one hundred students participated in the Concert Band, which performed at the Christmas Concert, the Spring Concert, and its own concert in March. Music ranged from marches and novelties to a complete symphony.

Our musical groups would certainly not be complete without Conard's forty-piece orchestra. Limited by a small string section, this group still managed to play such difficult numbers as Hanson's Symphony Number 2 and to provide essential instrumental background for the spring musical, Kiss Me Kate.

Anyone passing room 192 during the second period will hear the pear-shaped tones of Conard's select vocal group. Under the direction of Mr. William Lauer, the Conard Choir participated in the annual Christmas Concert and Spring Con-

Service Is Their Watchword

There are many ways to aid Conard, as people in the Service Club, OH! Twenties, Senior Girls' League, and Monitors have discovered.

One hundred and twenty-five members perform the varied activities of the Service Club. Their year is filled with typing and filing for teachers, ushering at school functions, and supervising Bundle Day at Conard, besides participating in the Easter Lily and Heart Fund drives.

Elusive books in the library are tracked down by one of the twenty-five members of OH! Twenties, the group which assists the librarian. Besides giving their study halls for library work, they also plan activities like their trip to New York during Spring vacation.

If high heels are in style and the senior girls are tripping not so merrily up the stairs, it must be the day of the Faculty Tea or the Senior-Sophomore Tea. The Senior Girl's League by planning these teas promotes the purpose of acting as "big sisters" to the sophomores and of improving student-teacher relations.

Conard's police force is its group of Monitors, who successfully guide 1600 students through the crowded intersections. Their "slow-down" warnings have prevented the occurrence of many Conard collisions.

Last seen on roads leading to either Boston, Hartford, or New York . . . the forty members of the History Tours Club. These students visited sites where American history has been made and where the symbols of our freedom are being preserved. Bunker Hill, the "America Goes to the Polls" exhibit in Hartford, and the Mark Twain Memorial were among the landmarks seen by this year's club.

Tracing Times, Training Minds

Students who have made the decision to teach as their career learn about this profession in the William Lyon Phelps Club. Strangely believe it! There are still some students who study the classics. Nothing, but nothing may keep the twenty members of Ex Libris from their bi-monthly meetings, in which they discuss great works of literature like Aristotle's Ethics, Milton's Areopagitica, and Machiavelli's The Prince.

"Would you say that unprecedented disarmament would cause a deflationary price rise?" Such questions were part of every Foreign Policy Club meeting. Student or guest lectures, followed by question and discussion periods, were the major activities of this very active club. The year was climaxed by the selection of ten of the one hundred members as delegates to the Model United Nations Assembly at the University of Hartford.

Another high point of the year was the annual trip to New York City to visit museums.

Once a week during the winter months the Center alleys were invaded by twenty-three boys belonging to Conard's Bowling Club. The alleys donated trophies to the outstanding bowlers of this club. The top four bowlers of Conard climaxed their season with a tournament against Hall.

Engaged in Battle

Ice Hockey Club: Mr. McInerny, adviser; Larry Sarkozy, Nat Stoddard, Peter Larratt, Dick Sidell, co-captain; Bob Tofil, Rod Taylor, co-captain.

Whenever there was ice, a plentiful commodity this winter, skaters from Conard could be seen practicing their ice hockey skills at Wood Pond after school. The Hockey Club did not compete with other organized teams, but played many hard games amongst its own members. Mr. Mac and his boys also had "farm" teams set up among interested skaters in the junior highs so as to insure a club of crack skaters in future years.

"You've certainly helped to brighten Christmas here." Many such compliments are received by the members of the Home Economics Club, who enjoy extending their knowledge of homemaking and offering service to the community. This past year the girls used their time to make Christmas favors for hospitals, knit sweaters, and make sock-animals. Thus, they learned by helping others.

The eighteen members of the Chess Club meet weekly to match skills and wits on the chess board. Members compete on a ladder to decide the best players in the club, are chosen to represent the school in both home and away matches. About eight of these are held each year with teams of chess players from Hall, East Hartford, Bulkeley, and Manchester.

"Snap, whiz, bang, crackle!" No, not a new breakfast cereal. Only another ornery projector to be cured by the Motion Picture Operators Club. The members of this club see more than their share of movies in all types of subjects while fulfilling their duties of running projectors for teachers. With the new emphasis on audio-visual education, this club can expect to see more and more action in the future.

Motion Picture Operators: Mark Sidell, Steve Mahler, Dick Hubert, Harold Bender.

"Onward to Mt. Monadnock!" Twice each year, in the fall and in the spring a troop of robust Conardites, under "General" Mac's direction, camp outdoors and hike up this New Hampshire mountain. Our Mountaineers benefit from the invigorating uplift of fresh air and exercise.

Much to the disappointment of Conard girls, the boys seen gazing at the stars were not becoming romantic; they were members of Conard's Astronomy Club! Most of the boys had already made or used their own telescopes and had studied the history of space, so they extended their knowledge by listening to the lectures of astronomers. Having an adviser who disagreed with Einstein added to the fascination of the year.

Students Recognized for Spanish Achievements

"Caramba!"

Charter members all! Under the direction of Mr. John Darcy, a chapter of Spanish National Honor Society was organized at Conard this year. Twenty-six students were recognized for outstanding achievement in Spanish and were made members of the Ruben Dario Chapter of this national organization.

On Monday afternoons Der deutsche Verein meets at Conard, and an ordinary school room becomes part of das wundervolle Land, Germany. The Club's thirteen members enjoy using vocabulary games, slides, and records to learn about German customs and ways of life. To create further atmosphere, the members converse only in German, natürlich!

The tapping heels of José Greco at the Bushnell Auditorium delighted many people, including the members of the Spanish Club, El Circulo Español. The seventy-five students also hear Miss Sargent of the Conard staff give a talk on Cuba. Through activities like these, Spanish-speaking people and nations come to life at Conard.

"Should Latin be included in the high school program?" "Yes!" chorus the fifty members of Societas Romana and their new adviser, Mr. Costello. How could there be any dissenters after a year of lectures, debates such as the one mentioned above, and, finally, a scrumptuous pizza banquet attended by the togaed club-members?

Learning to Live with Languages; Learning to Live with Peoples

Found any nuts in your Christmas cake? Larry Wilkes and Judy Lessow came up with some in their Christmas cake at the Christmas party of Le Rendez-vous Français and earned dual crowns as King and Queen for the day. This is only one custom of France which the seventy-five members have learned. They also went on a audio-tour of France, as Miss Warren spoke on her experiences. No member of this club would ever get lost in France.

French Club — Left to Right — FRONT ROW: Maxine Landerman, Penny Martin, Barbara Morse, president; Jane Gordon, secretary; Mary Greenwood, vice-president; Marianne Datoli, Pam Michelson. SECOND ROW: Donna Shulman, Marguerite Dupuis, Chris Duncan, Marilyn Singer, Judy Lessow, Barbara Brewer, Linda Chernoff, Brenda Altman. THIRD ROW: Sandy Fishman, Martha Griffith, Mary Brown, Bambi Graff, Linda McBride, Sandy Hurwich.

Boys at Conard had an excellent opportunity to learn to teach athletics through membership in the Boys' Leaders Club. Candidates signed up in their gym classes at the beginning of the year, and, upon approval of the faculty, began their activities as leaders, devoting five periods a week to aiding gym instruction.

"Who's the next sucker?"

Inspired Leadership Is Inspiring

The lucky girls who wore white blouses and shorts to gym class instead of gym suits were members of the Girls' Junior-Senior Leaders Club. These 33 girls, besides helping the physical education instructors, also sponsored "play days" with other schools and planned a "splash party" with the Boys' Leaders Club.

Red "C's" on gray sweaters dotted the gym when members of the Varsity Club assisted at various athletic events. These varsity lettermen aimed to promote good relationships among Conard teams and a friendlier rivalry between Conard and other schools.

"C-H-I-E-F-T-A-I-N-S!"

The spirit of the Pep Club members enlivened the student body and aided the cheerleaders in bringing out Conard's fullest school spirit and loudest cheers.

Helped in their efforts by a flashcard section, red and gray shakers, and colorful posters in the halls, the Pep Club enjoyed a successful year. They sponsored many noisy busloads of students for away games, and highlighted the year with a "Beat Hall" float at the Conard-Hall game.

Class History

Sophomore Year

Come back to Brigadoon.

"Honest, girls, I don't care where they base the Polaris!"

Armed with maps, the class of '61, 500 strong, set out to conquer the maze of rooms that was Conard to us. We quickly adjusted to the 3 lunch periods and dismissal at 2:15, and made friends with older Conardites, including Helga Ziegeleder, our A.F.S. student from Austria.

Starting a tradition of sophomore award-winning activities, Margaret Ferguson won a school-wide spelling bee held in honor of the Noah Webster Bicentennial. Five sophomores, Jackie Benoit, Dick Fisher, Bruce Magun, Margaret Ferguson, and Polly Harrington, took part in the all-state musical groups that fall. By selling well over one thousand dollars' worth of magazine subscriptions, the newest class led Conard in the A.F.S. magazine drive.

The varied interests at Conard fascinated us. The football team, after an exciting season, lost the championship to Hall High by only two points. On the academic side, we were greeted by our first Wednesday lecture series with that familiar cry, "Seniors in the auditorium, juniors in the cafeteria, and sophomores in the gym." Mrs. Waterhouse's English classes managed to escape those hard gym seats for two lectures, when their classes presented skits directed by Barbara Morse, Mike Ladd, Mike Jacobs, Don Smith, Penny Rugienis, and Myles Connell.

The Christmas season brought a beautiful concert and finally, our first long vacation. We heard Bob Scott play "The Children's Marching Song" for twelve hours, saw "Gigi," read Doctor Zhivago, and found out about our newest state, Alaska.

The second half of the year found many sophomores drowning their mid-year sorrows in "awful-awfuls." Carol Lipman, Rita Skehan, Marilyn Young, Judy Johnson, Pat Morris, Joanne Dicklow, Sharon Germaine, Marianne Datoli, Barbara Magun, Stephanie Mayer, and Merle Tilton cheered us up in the Dance Club show, "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round."

Inklings of spring fever didn't seem to affect the class of '61 as they went on another award-winning spree. In the Scholastic Writing Awards Contest, Myles Connell won a Gold Key for his short story, and Stephanie Mayer and Mike Ladd won Honorable Mentions in the same area. All the Science Fair awards granted to Conard were won by sophomores. Jerry Rosen and Mike Jacobs earned top awards; Bruce Magun, Allan Fraser, Don Smith, and Linda Thayer earned First Grants. Richard Gann and Jon Silbert earned Third Grants. Our class also attained ninety-ninth percentile in the Iowa Tests.

Mary, Queen of Scots was presented by the Dramatic Club, and the band and orchestra exchange concert with Marblehead High School followed on the agenda. Then there was the Conard Capers talent show, "At 59 Conard Alley," which featured sophomores Bob Schaefer, Mary Brown, Marcy Draper, Joan Davidson, Nancy Mills, Nancy McClelland, Linda Wheeler, and Betty Lilienthal. During spring vacation, which began after the show, we indulged in circle pins, paisley shirts, and madras "guaranteed to bleed."

The end of the year was in sight. The choir and orchestra presented our spring musical, Lerner and Loewe's Brigadoon. Ted Dubitzky and Steve Quattropiani held parts in the show, which was filled with such professional touches as real bagpipes brought from Trinity College. We saw Bambi Graff in the Dramatic Club production of HOUSE ON THE CLIFF, and the musical groups finished the year with the Spring Concert and the Memorial Day parade.

After finals, we departed from Conard for the summer with plans to "look into the college and career situation early," as our Wednesday lectures had urged, and to swim, and to hula with a hoop, and to relax and enjoy that glorious summer after our first year at Conard.

Junior Year

Returning to Conard for a second year in September '59, we were greeted by a seven-period day and a special issue of POW WOW prepared by Quill and Scroll. The honors physics lectures were another first, designed to broaden the knowledge of the capable science student.

Imports from Europe that year were Volkswagen, Khrushchev, and Chiara Saraceno, our A.F.S. student from Italy. A tag drive, penny jars, and a work day supplied the funds for the next year's A.F.S.er, and Barbara Morse was notified by the American Field Service that she would be Conard's ambassador to Greece for the next summer.

While Broadway was sporting WEST SIDE STORY, MY FAIR LADY, and the SOUND OF MUSIC, Conard presented its own entertainment. Conard Capers came first, written by Stephie Mayer and Myles Connell, and including Richard Gann, Pete Storrs, Bob Schaefer, Linda McBride, Judie Greene, Dick Blum, Dave Dillon, Mary Brown, Joan Davidson, Marcy Draper, Elaine Friedle, Nancy McClelland, Linda Wheeler, Neil Sozzi, and Norm Titcomb. ALL MY SONS and its principals, Stephanie Mayer, Raylea Sacher, and Dave Dillon, brought rave reviews as did Dance Dilemma in which Sharon Germaine, Rosemary Masi, Carol Lipman, Stephanie Mayer, Sandy Fishman, Joanne Dicklow, Gini Gadd, Judy Johnson, Marilyn Young, Joan Seymour, and Joan Goldman participated. One-fifth of the student body was engaged in the presentation of the Christmas Concert. Later Conard went Broadway with its production of ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, under the direction of Mr. William Lauer. The choir and orchestra turned out a beautiful performance starring Carol Cohen, Linda McBride, Ric Rask, Ted Dubitzky, Pete Storrs, and Bob Schaefer in the lead roles with the support of Richard Gann, Larry Perl, Leslie Abrahamson, and Steve Quatropiani. The final musical event of the year was the Spring Concert with all the musical groups participating and a capacity crowd attending.

Our music, though, was not confined to our own auditorium; for several talented Conardites participated in the annual All-State Concert at the Bushnell Auditorium in October: Anne Schafer in the Choir; Dick Fisher, Bruce Magun, Nancy Mills, and Marilyn Singer in the Band; and Jackie Benoit and Margaret Ferguson in the Orchestra. Conard was also proud to boast Betty Lilienthal as a finalist in the Aetna Music Scholarship Contest.

The big dance for us was, of course, the Junior Prom, "Misty," held in April. George Bassos and Annette Craigie were elected King and Queen with the loyal and willing court consisting of Sharon Germaine, Bambi Graff, Judy Johnson, Anne Schafer, Tom Hickey, Paul Murphy, Ric Rask, and Fred Schaschl.

Disregarding concerts and dances, sports, in the form of basketball and football games, held the attendance record. Several lucky students saw the game through new contact lenses, which were becoming popular at Conard. Another sport to assume first place in popularity at Conard was skiing, especially with the added excitement of the Winter Olympics held in Squaw Valley. When not at a game, students spent a great deal of time listening to the antics of Shelley Berman and the Kingston Trio.

However, we could not spend all our time in fun and frolic. The Student Council was still actively functioning, helped along by Fred Schaschl as Treasurer. The government of the Junior Class was handled by George Bassos, President; Fred Schaschl, Vice-president; Sharen Germaine, Secretary; Tom Hickey, Treasurer. The school year went out in a blaze of activities like Student Council elections and early admission exams for college. When the smoke of the Student Council elections had cleared away, the "big guns" in school were Bob Dunn, President; Fred Schaschl, Vice-president; and Sharon Germaine, Secretary.

"Where the Boys Are."

"Look Ma, no cavities!"

"Better read it right. This one's got to work."

Conard's Homemakers of Tomorrow.

"When the next batch dries, I'll hit Fort Lauderdale."

Many students won recognition for their work in high school. As an honor for their rank in class, the following twenty-four juniors were selected as junior ushers for graduation: Don Smith, Roy Wildeman, Margaret Ferguson, Fred Schaschl, Al Fraser, Mary Brown, Dick Sidell, Richard Gann, Chuck Terry, Donna West, Claire Trehub, Linda McBride, Myles Connell, Annette Craigie, Janice Nelson, Marcy Draper, Karen Ellsworth, Ginnie Sacco, Carolyn Melander, Adele Schweitzer, Diane Willen, Elaine Friedle, Marguerite Dupuis, and Pat Glass. At Conard's Honors Assembly, juniors saw their class mates recognized in the following ways: George Bassos, Harvard Book Prize; Linda McBride, Connecticut Association of Women Deans and Counselors award; Jon Weyland, the Franklin and Marshall Book Prize; Bob Dunn, the Trinity Book Prize; and Myles Connell, the Williams Book Prize.

The SECONIAN editors and staff were chosen, with Myles Connell as editor-in-chief, Elaine Friedle as literary editor, Mary Brown as layout editor, Don Smith as executive editor, Fred Schaschl as sports editor, and Pete Toennies as photography editor. Other honors went to Bob Kramer, Steve Quattropiani, and George Bassos, who went as Conard's representative to Nutmeg Boys' State, and Peggy Grimmeissen, who went to Laurel Girls' State.

As we wistfully watched the outgoing seniors eagerly signing classbooks, we dreamed of senior privileges, caps and gowns, and our last and most important year of high school.

Senior Year

Back at Conard for our last "first day," we eagerly started another year filled with books, people, and senior dignity. The faculty had some surprises for us (besides the usual homework) — a sock hop, a variety show, a pavement dance, and a bonfire-pep rally ending in a snake dance in which we weary students made it only halfway around the football field.

With voices hoarse from pep rallies and arguments about the Kennedy-Nixon television debates, we somehow managed to cheer at the football games. But how could we help it when we were led by such sparkling cheerleaders as captain Bambi Graff, Annette Craigie, Judy Johnson, Nancy Mills, and Anne Schafer? The cheering was loudest of all at the first Conard-Hall basketball game when Hall beat us by two points in a sudden-death overtime. The yells turned to laughter at Fun Night, when our reserved and modest faculty was seen throwing water and pies and acting like students.

In addition to our activities in the gym, we saw many assemblies from the comfortable depths of the auditorium seats. Besides the lecture series on the humanities, the Student Council added to our "cultural" program. Under President Bob Dunn, Vice-president Fred Schaschl, Secretary Sharon Germaine, and Executive Board representatives Anne Schafer and George Bassos, the council sponsored a girls' choir from Milwaukee-Downer College and a troupe of Shakespearean actors who preformed scenes from ROMEO AND JULIET, A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM, and KING RICHARD II.

Momentarily forgetting about civil wars in Laos and the Congo, we listened to "Dear Abby" discuss teen-age problems.

Another program that all students enjoyed was Conard Capers, which sported such illustrious performers as Dick Blum, Barbara Brewer, Carol Cohen, Annette Craigie, Tim Fanning, Richard Gann, Lou Genovesi, Judie Greene, Judy Johnson, Ulrich Meditsch, Steve Quattropiani, Anne Schafer, Don Smith, Pete Storrs, Shela Tierney, Donna West, Peggy Grimmeisen and Pat Wilkie. An American Field Service assembly was given by Barbara Morse, who showed slides of her summer visit to Greece, and by exchange student Ulrich Meditsch, who took us on an imaginary trip to his home town of Hanover, Germany. Ulrich, who lived with Mark Baxley for the year, was so popular with us that we were inspired during our magazine drive, and we ended with a profit of $2,695.50.

The auditorium was also the scene of the Dramatic Club play, Ladies in Retirement, with Dave Dillon and Penny Gellert, and the long-awaited choir musical, Kiss Me Kate, with Linga McBride, Flora LaReau, Pete Storrs, Dave Dillon, Carol Cohen, Bambi Graff, Prudy Brundick, Betty Shages, Richard Gann, Bruce Cooper, Pete Knapp, Larry Perl, Bob Schaefer, and Sheldon Levine.

Jackie Benoit, Dick Fisher, and Marilyn Singer in the Orchestra; Barbara Deane, Dave Dillon, Beth Drago, Margaret Ferguson, Bruce Magun, Ray Ruddy, and Myra Young in the Band; and Prudy Brundick, Ted Dubitzky, Carol Lipman, Linda McBride, Anne Schafer, and Pete Storrs in the Choir, all veterans of many Conard concerts, were representatives to the All-State Concert. Jackie Benoit and Marilyn Singer and Choir member Pete Storrs participated in the All-Eastern Music Convention.

All the activity wasn't in the auditorium, though. Our classrooms made a fine showing in the National Merit Scholarship Contest in which we boasted twelve finalists: Dick Boulton, Mary Brown, Bob Dunn, Margaret Ferguson, Al Fraser, Elaine Friedle, Richard Gann, Jack Garman, Ray Roy, Dick Sidell, Don Smith, and Jon Weyland. There were twenty-seven recipients of Letters of Commendation. Other awards included the D.A.R. citizenship award, received by Sharon Germaine, the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award, received by Linda McBride, and the Bausch and Lomb Science Medal, received by Ray Roy.

In the halls, possibly the liveliest places in the school, crutches told tales of skiing and groans wailed the tragedy of college boards. As college acceptances arrived, more and more seniors caught that contagious disease known as "senioritis."

Our activities in the cafeteria were of a much different nature. The ravenous students who ate there by day were an entirely different breed from those who returned to dance at night at such gay occasions as "Autumn Leaves" and the Senior Reception. Our reception, that special night in the life of a senior, was arranged by Sue Lang, Shari Berne, Jerry Goodman, Nancy Rosenberg, Peg Grimmeisen, and Sheila Tierney.

The last days of the school year seemed to be designed for seniors. The Senior Advisory Board, headed by Roy Wildeman, elected the committees needed for our final weeks at school — Class Night, selection of the Class Gift, and Graduation. Class President Tom Hickey, assisted by Vice-President Ed Karotkin, Secretary Barbara Brewer, and Treasurer Ulrich Meditsch, helped on the committees.

Graduation loomed ahead, and the last day at Conard, one that had seemed so wonderful to us when we were juniors, had a sadness attached to it when we were seniors. The new SECONIANS reminded us that we had lost something which we could never regain.

On commencement night of June 24, our class, the largest ever to graduate from Conard, wore the red and gray with pride and stepped boldly into the bright future.

"Quick, put up the net!"

"But . . . nine sundaes?"

"Come to Papa."
